

Call for Applications

Senior and Junior Researchers (with a doctorate) from and outside the University of Passau are invited to apply for funding in the new PICAIS funding programmes.

The Passau International Centre for Advanced Interdisciplinary Studies is the central platform for academic excellence and interdisciplinary research at the University of Passau (Bavaria, Germany). It promotes research aligned with the University's strategic guiding themes, supporting interdisciplinary project ideas that break new ground in terms of the topics examined and the methods employed. The centre is especially dedicated to the advancement of early career researchers and the creation of opportunities for network-building and interdisciplinary cooperation. PICAIS attracts international visiting scholars to Passau and integrates them into the University's academic community.
